COMMISSIONER TO BLOG ABOUT HIS ACTIVITIES

(FRANKFORT, Ky.) – Kentucky Education Commissioner Terry Holliday will share insight, information and his thoughts and concerns through regular blog postings.

Doc H's Blog is hosted through Blogger and may be accessed at <http://kyedcommissioner.blogspot.com/>. The blog postings also will be viewable on the Kentucky Department of Education's website.

Holliday will use the blog as a means of providing two-way communication between him and Kentucky citizens. Visitors to the site may comment on his postings and leave messages.

Holliday plans to travel around Kentucky, visiting school systems and talking with educators, parents, elected officials and citizens. He will post highlights of school visits, summaries of discussions and other items of interest to Kentucky's P-12 education community.

Holliday also makes regular posts to Twitter (kycommissioner) and has a Facebook page.
